HOOVER'S MORATORIUM AND WAR DEBT REVIS-ION PLANS RECEIVED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.

(A)—President Hoover asked congress today to open the way for further war debts revision, saying it was required in the "economic emergency."

This view was embodied in a message submitting his moratorium proposal for ratification before next Tuesday when the European payments again fail due. Congressional leaders at once said the consideration which they want to give the moratorium made such quick action impossible.

There was no prospect of the proposal being rejected, however, despite the senate fight against it by Johnson of California.

His first visit was to the lome of Michael Gilmore. There he crawled through an open window and tiptoed to a spare bedroom, where Mrs. Effie Martin, a guest, was sleeping.

But Mr. Coates was tired and sleepy so he lay down on the unoccupied side of the bed, placed his shotgun on his chest and was soon in Slunmerland, an alcoholic drowslness, the police said, having made this quickly possible.

"Z-z-z-z," snored Mr. Coates, so loudly that Mrs. Martin was awakened.

She screamed.

The police came.

There shook Mr. Coates.

"What time is it?" he inquired, as he opened his eyes.

"Time to go to jall," one of the officers replied.

PASS DEFENSE IS GIVEN AUS-TIN MAROONS WEDNES-DAY AFTERNOON

Corsicana and Austin coaches sent their charges these picks this week, as at this through strenuous defensive stage of the Interscholastic Leapractices Wednesday afternoon and will give their final hard workouts Thursday. Maroons Leave Friday.
The Austin club will leave for Corsicana early Friday afternoon and plans to workout here early Saturday morning.

Coach Benine Strickland stressed pass defense Wednesday afternoon. The Maroons, generally conceded to be the underdogs since Corsicana downed the Tyler club, have high hopes of upsetting the dope and spilling the Corsicana club. Robert Wilson is receiving plenty of attention in the Austin practice sessions, both on his running ability and his aerial participation.

Austin has a good line and the Tigers will in all probability be forced to their limit to win this quarter-final tilt in the University of Texas Inerscholastic league race. Austin has a good football team or it would not be in the quarter-finals. Austin will throw caution to the winds and will be out fighting as the underdogs.

Coach Pierce stated his club did not look good in practice Wednesday afternoon. The game will be broadcast over station KUT, Austin, according to an announcement Thursday morning. This station is a private concern, but formerly was operated by the University of Texas.

Mr. Wilbur looked skeptically upon talk of a department of education. He praised () policies for local autonomy advocated last month by the national advisory committee on education, and then sale.

"The recommendation that they be furthered by creation of a federal department of education deserves further study. My experience with federal bureaus and departments does not encourage the belief that, once created, decentralization becomes their goal."

"Congress," he said, directing his attack in another direction, "has never authorized either the land office or the states to protect these lands.

Should Select Agency
"Now, before it is too late the choice must be made between the agencies that are to do the job. The western states are grown to maturity and are alive to the problem. But if congress is unwilling to let them solve it, it should let the national government do it. Both are helpless now."

The secretary voiced his belief in the reclamation service, recently under attack.

"Reclamation of public lands to date," he said, "has added only about three-fourth of one per cent to our national crop area, but has added $1,761,929,000 to the purchasing power of the west."

The bright spot in the use of public lands, Dr. Wilbur said, was the establishment of the national parks. This task, however, he does not consider finished and urges that the Grand Teton and Great Smoky mountain areas be completed as soon as possible.

In the field of oil and gas conservation, Dr. Wilbur said he looked forward "with some hope" to a permanent working arrangement sanctioned by congress which would include the following elements:

After protracted negotiations an accord was reached with the Haitian government on Aug. providing for the return to Haitian control of important government services heretofore carried on under American supervision by virture of general obligations arising through the provisions of our treaty waith Haiti.

In accordance with this agreement the Haitian government on Oct, 1 assumed definitely the adit in instration and control of the sanitary service, the technical service of agriculture, which includes the industrial educational system. All American personnel was withdrawn from these services.

which is not only good for the chealth, but marvelous for the complexion since it clears the system of all poisonous matter.

Have you a bad complexion, or rheumatism? Are you unreasonably depressed? Do you suddenly go to bits about the middle of the afternoon with extreme fatigue? Have you one of those tricky memories that forgets names and the details of all sorts of recent events? All these widely divering symptoms point to one thing, that your body is probably full of acids and poisons.

A subject like this is far too large to be handled in a brief beauty column. But let me give you one hint for a treatment that is bound to do you a lot of good. People poison themselves from bad alcohol, and many things wrong with them inside so their bodies function in a half-hearted fashion. Poisons back up for years in the system. One of the most efficient ways of getting rid of these poisons is by a series of radiant heat baths.

In London and Paris they give them in the following way: Two pieces of lead are put one at the back and one over the stomach, and connected with a battery. The electricity passing from one plate to the other stimulates the body—far greater than the body could stand on the outside. This drives the poisons out. At the same time the patient is rolled in towels, and big hot lamps are focused on him. After a time this dry heat causes the skin to perspire, which it does very freely, which it does very freely, which it does very freely, which, though it is highly director of Libby & Co.

Moral virtue simply consists in being able, anywhere and every-where, to exercise five particular qualities — self-respect, magnanwas my guide.
Rome Seizes A Saint.

Patmos is a holy place today because it once held, as a prisoner of imperial Rome, the aged Apostle John, whose home was in Ephesus and who supervised the churches in the hinterland of Asia Minor. It was on this barrar rocky spot set in longliness in the programs to the set in longliness in the line of the longliness in longli Asia Minor. In his deep distress, John's eyes were opened to see the indescribable glories of the indescribable glories of the ternal Kingdom. In his own troubles, he discovered deathless comfort for all the afflicted children of God.

dren of God.

Help For The Distressed.

Thus we have this closing book of Scripture as a distinctive message to the distressed. It was sage to the distressed. It was meant to comfort the persecuted Christians of the Apostle' own churches; it has become the store-house of consolation for believers in all ages. In the present time of problems and hardships. this Revelation has the sustaining word for all who believe God. In his supreme and tragic hour the Apostle was giving no pelty palliation, no vague word of easy optimism, no small cure for great woes. He did not assure his beloved brethren that their trouble would soon be over. Instead, he pointed out the greatness and glory of God; the certainty of His glory of God: the certainty of His triumph and the blissful rewards that await all who should endure and overcome. There is no other truth that can sustain the heart of man like the assurance of the goodness and sovereignty of the Almighty. In a period of world unrest, John did not expound the weakness of Rome, but the starength of the eternal father. He envisaged and proclaimed a comfort that transcended time, and that made his disciples feel the envisaged and proclaimed a comfort that transcended time, and that made his disciples feel the strength that flows from the very throne of God.

A Book of Metaphors.

Revelation is not an easy book to read in all of its parts. Some of its figures are undoubtedly in a secret code, known only to the brotherhood. Even in the plainer parts it seems as if the author had reached forth to the uttermost metaphors of which his penwas master, in an effort to portray the unutterable glories of heaven. A comprehensive summary of the whole might be. "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God fath prepared for them that love Him."

This triumphant note sounds from the first chapter to the last.

This triumphant note sounds from the first chapter to the last. It acclaims God as Him "which is, and which was, and which is to come"—the "King of kings and Lord of fords". It hails Chust as Ruler of the kings of the earth, and as the Redeemer of His peorile; who is to come again in margesty, as judge and avenger and rewarder. It is a great God whom John saw on Patmos.

The Friends Left Behind.

As at eventinde the exiled Apostele sat on a rocky promontory, and looking out over the glassy sea, reddened with sunset glow—the sea, nevertheless, which separated him from his work and from his churches—his thoughts were tender, solicitious thoughts of his spiritual children on the mainland Hy knew them intimately, their faults and their virtues. His shepherd-heart yearned for their wel-fare.

Thus it was that his book year.

Thus it was that his book penned in a prisoner's exile, was directed to "the Seven Churches were no mere mythical abstractions, but real people in real places. As I found by visiting them all, they were a patient experience. were a natural circuit quickly and easily covered from Ephesus, the home of John History knows them as great cities, each with its claim to fame John knew them as souls that needed a pastor's care, and that might suffer in their shepherd's absence,
